For those of you who don't know Ottawa well, Saint Paul University is centrally located, just blocks from the Rideau Canal, between Carleton and Ottawa University, and backing onto the Rideau River. We'll be staying in the main conference and residence building, which is technically 201 Main Street, but it's tucked behind the main university buildings so isn't visible from the street. The map below shows where it is in relation to the other campus buildings.

CHECK IN TIMES AND PARKING: There are no set check in times. The residence desk is open 24 hours, so you will be welcomed whenever you arrive. For those of you arriving by car, enter the campus via the parking lots (across from Rue Hazel on the map below) and follow the blue and white signs to the Residence & Conference Centre around the back of the main buildings. There are parking spaces there for residents and you can get a free permit for the weekend from the front desk when you check in. If they're out of spaces, they'll direct you to a slightly more distant lot.
